RT Communications

Cole Slaamot

Son of Heidi and Jeremy Slaamot. Homeschooling is a different lifestyle so my school memories will probably be a little different than those of my fellow peers. Due to my parents choice to homeschool, my sister and I have many memories of being with family and studying alongside my sister, who often cracks me up with her witty jokes. (Not that we didn't have our share of arguments as kids, boy did we have many.) But we always ended with an apology to each other. Also I have lots of fun memories with the NACHO Homeschool group, like playing capture the flag. Homeschooling has also allowed us to become a real close knit family.

I believe God is calling me into the ministry as a pastor, which is something I'm really looking forward to. I'm looking into Frontier School of the Bible, and think I'll end up going there. It will be awesome to see what else God has in store for me and I hope to lift the name of Jesus on high.
